

Help Us 'Round Up' Some Colorado Springs History

The Colorado Springs Oral History Project is an effort to interview individuals who have helped shape our city, or are representative of the inhabitants of the Pikes Peak region, and can provide insight into the Springs story. The interviews will be captured as oral histories, which may be available on line, provide the basis for a book, or be published in some other format, and will be available to future generations.

You can participate by identifying possible interviewees for the project. Complete the Oral History Nomination form (on the reverse) on yourself, a friend, family member, or a personal or business acquaintance that you feel has some Colorado Springs memories to share.
